

Saving Water Is Always In Season!

CITY OF SANTA FE

Santa Fe is a high desert city with highly variable annual precipitation.

Some years we receive ample snowfall, while others years are very dry. Long ago, our community collectively agreed to embody a waterwise lifestyle to help ensure that we secure a reliable water supply for the future. Residents and visitors alike are always encouraged to make every drop count! Whether you live here or you're visiting, saving water is always in season!
